

POCKET PHARMACIST

If you know someone at risk of an opioid overdose, you can save their life by purchasing Naloxone, an overdose reversal nasal spray, over-the-counter at your local pharmacy.

Ways to spot false medication

- Discoloration
- No labels
- No active ingredients
- Substandard ingredients
- Undeclared ingredients
- Incorrect dosages
- Pills that are not smooth
- Uneven pressed labels

SOURCE: DRUG ENFORCEMENT AGENCY

Never purchase drugs from anyone other than a licensed, trusted pharmacist.

The DEA website provides a great visual for real and false medication. Scan the QR Code here to access this resource:

Warn your children about the dangers of websites intended to mislead and draw in younger people to purchase illicit drugs.

Resources

If you or someone you know is suffering from opioid addiction, reach out to the 24/7 Addiction Hotline at 1-800-662-4357.

Savannah Substance Abuse Centers:

Savannah Treatment Center – (912) 233-6430
Ardmore Recovery – (912) 944-8341

Brunswick Substance Abuse Center:

United Health & Wellness Detox - (912) 455-2861

Waycross Substance Abuse Center:

Treatment Center of Waycross - (912) 285-2658

Pooler Substance Abuse Center:

Emerald Neuro-Recover Center – (855) 698-3369